

LEADERSHIP CHARACTERISTICS

The Business Managers should possess the following qualities:

- A creative leader that builds a group - spirit of team work

This reduces the need to give out orders, since the staff follows the company guidelines on a free willing or voluntary basis.

People will accept the leadership and will give loyalty to the company in return for consideration

- The ability to get things done
- To keep cost down
- To teach others
- Co-operative and demonstrates mutual respect for others
- To have specialize knowledge
- To be an effective planner and demonstrates sound judgement
- Exhibit exemplary leadership acumen
- The ability to make sound, mature and quick decisions. To make difficult decisions and to stick by them.
- Remains sensitive to employees human foibles
- Remains knowledgeable that tender emotions are powerful
- To demonstrate originality
- To display a level of self confidence in one self that inspires other.
- To involve individuals, so that they are challenged to corporate, having been sufficiently motivated to actively participate

- Personal Qualities - Warmth, patience empathy for the needs and feelings of others, and sense of humor
- Shown Ambition - Vitality, aggressiveness and drive
- Integrity - Sense of values, dealing with fellow human beings, honesty
- Willingness to risk failure - but not fool hardy or reckless and irresponsible in decision making
- Demonstrates a sense of Personal responsibility and high moral Standard
- Emotional and Psychological maturity
- Demonstrates flexibility in growing and changing times
- The ability to work effectively with people of various ages, beliefs and backgrounds (i.e to get along with people).